Dear Sir,

We acknowledge receipt of your favour No.265/TA of April 8th, and have pleasure in replying to your enquiries as under:-

1. The shorter and more direct route from India to America is via Europe, and from Bombay you have the option of several Steamship Companies. Details as regards the services, fares, etc. will be found in the pages of our O.T.Gazette, a copy of which we are forwarding you under separate cover. We would recommend utilising the P&O or Anchor Line service to Marseilles, or Genoa thence overland to Cherbourg or English port, connecting there with the Atlantic service for New York. There are frequent sailings from Continental and English ports to America, and the fares vary according to steamer and grade of accommodation, also the season.

2. We do not understand your remarks in paragraph 2 when you ask whether the cost of passage between India and America is equivalent to a passage from India-England-America and back by same route.

3.& 4. Return tickets are issued at reduced rates from Bombay to Europe and U.K., the rates for which will be found in the above Gazette. Minimum rate Atlantic fares from English ports to New York will be from £55.15.0 to £56.15.0 single, £111.10.0 to £69.15.0 round trip, first class, £34.10.0 to £30/- single, £66/- to £56/- round trip. Cabin class, and £28.10.0 to £24.15.0 single, £50.5.0 to £44/- round trip, Tourist class. The above are Cunard Line fares which can be taken as applicable to White Star or other mamoth liners.

We trust the foregoing information will assist you in deciding on the grade, steamship line, etc. in respect of the passage, and await the favour of your further instructions.

Assuring you of our best attention at all times.

Yours faithfully,
Pro. Thos. Cook & Son Ltd.
